been agreed, or whether they have to strike.

To do this the coal districts will be divided into a series of small sections. The sections in each district will be divided. It is not stated whether this would be a referendum among the workers or by other means.

MARTIAL LAW TO BE USED.

But in each section, where the strike is spread and the men go out, it was said authoritatively that martial law would be proclaimed at once under the President's law powers.

Whether further steps have been decided upon was not disclosed. The situation is still critical as reported.

Opens Campaign to Drive Sinn Fein From Ireland

By International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A powerful anti-Sinn Fein campaign has been opened by the Daily Express. Under the heading "Sinn Fein in Ireland," the Express declared today that a shock was being made to stimulate British interest in Ireland.

"This shock may come any day," continued the Express, "and may be achieved more swiftly than anything experienced before, because the opposition behind the agitation is becoming more and more powerful."

"The police constitute the backbone of British power in Ireland," the Express said, "and they are being steadily undermined. Every man in Ireland who wears the King's uniform is a marked man and a possible victim. The situation is becoming so perilous that it is impossible to ignore."

Developed in the same spirit after a vote in Congress giving blanket approval to President Wilson in his fight to stop Sinn Fein, the Express declared that it was not only a matter of national honor but also a matter of national safety.

Senator Thomas, Republican of Idaho, voiced objection to the resolution sponsored by Senator Thomas, Democratic of Idaho, which would provide the administration with an emergency of Senate support in any action the President might take to stop the strike or to deal with it if it later broke.

Senator Thomas withdrew his demand for action, but the fact of his withdrawal gave notice that he would call up his resolution tomorrow for adoption.

Borah criticized Judge Cary, head of the U. S. Steel Corporation, for his attitude toward the steel strikers and organized labor.

"I am not in sympathy with capital when it refuses to treat with or concede labor as Judge Cary did," Borah said.

"I am not going to favor this resolution until I know what policy the government stands for. If it is intended to call out the militia and dominate the people with whom we have a controversy, I shall be against it, but if it is intended that justice and fairness be to be secured in everyone, then I have no objection."

"I have twice criticized Judge Cary," Thomas said. "I had hoped that the moral effect of such a resolution as this would prevent the occurrence of the strike. It is the duty of the American Congress to take an American stand. We don't propose to denounce anybody."

Many Injured in Clash on the South Brooklyn Water-front

Threatened today by the leaders of the insurgent longshoremen, bringing a real crisis in the gigantic port.

Although insurgent leaders claiming to represent twenty-four locals and 2200 stevedores issued a formal call for a strike, saying the walkout in date had been merely a "caution," President T. V. O'Connor, president of the Longshoremen's Union and leader of the "conservative," declared the situation looked better.

Both sides prepared for a bitter struggle. While the shipowners were declaring that they would begin loading vessels during the day and night, the "insurgent" strike leaders, led by Richard Butler, were preparing to picket on the water front.

O'Connor repudiated the action of the "insurgent" leaders in issuing formal strike notice, saying that they were not a union but a group of delegates from the twenty-four locals who was authorized to take such action. The leaders of the strike call have intensified the local factional hostility within the ranks of the Longshoremen's Union. Officials of assembly companies, whose freighters have been held up for three weeks, have come to the conclusion that the Conciliation Committee, headed by Mayor Hylan, is unable to end the strike, notwithstanding that it has the support of the majority of the conservative faction in the union.

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 27.—Army officials here today were emphatic in their declaration that no force over which they have control will be spared to capture the Mexican murderers of Lieutenants Waterhouse and Connelly.

The bodies are here today, having been brought by the United States destroyer Ward, which went in search of them on the coast of Lower California. Both the Mexican government and the United States government have the names of the murderers. It is said.

A daily record of their sufferings was written on the fuselage and the wings of their plane, scratched with a knife or a nail, stating but the barest details, but in which a story

$150,000 Ransom Paid to Mexicans Who Kidnaped

Consular Agent Jenkins

Washington, Oct. 27.—Confirmation of reports of the rescue of William O. Jenkins, American consular agent, kidnaped by Mexican bandits, at Puebla, Mexico, was received by the State Department today from the American Embassy at Mexico City.

The report declared that a ransom of $150,000 had been paid the rebels who held Jenkins.

The American Embassy informed the State Department that it had been informed by the Mexican government on Saturday that it would "make no effort" to secure Jenkins' release.

The latest advice received by the State Department declared that Jenkins was within the Mexican Federal lines and was expected to arrive in Puebla last night.

ROOSEVELT MEETINGS TO HOLD CROWD

Committee Arranges for Overflow From Exercises in Symphony Hall

A mass meeting in Symphony Hall tonight will close Boston's observance of the sixty-first anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt's birth. The committee in charge has announced that the public is invited and all the seats will be free.

George Wharton Pepper will pay tribute to the ex-President in a speech. "Roosevelt, the Great American," and Russell J. Coles of Virginia will relate a story of "Roosevelt and the Devil Fish." Short talks on the subject will be given by Governor Coolidge, Major-General Edwards, Senator Walsh, Mayor Peters, Congressman Gallivan, Guy A. Ham, Charles Sumner Bird and Arthur D. Hill.

A special musical program will be given by the Harvard Glee Club and there will be congregational singing of "How Firm a Foundation." Roosevelt's favorite hymn.

Judge Michael J. Sullivan, chairman of the Massachusetts Roosevelt committee, who will preside at tonight's meeting, said today that the committee expected that Symphony Hall would not be large enough for the overflow meeting in St. Stephen's street. The speakers there will be: Martin Hays, Sherman J. Cook, George E. Dugerty, Russell A. Wood, Wendell T. Thors and Joseph Connelly. A band has been engaged to give a concert at the open-air meeting. W. H. McMaster will preside.

The Navy Band was engaged to play at the open-air meeting today in front of Liberty Cottage on the grounds of the interest of the Roosevelt Memorial Fund. The speakers included District Attorney Pollard, Judge Michael J. Murray and Chairman Rollins of the 1914 Regiment. In practically every executive room in Greater Boston today there was some form of memorial service for Roosevelt.

Townpeople Believe Manner of Dr. Dean's Death Makes Him a Martyr

East Jaffrey is situated in the northeastern part of the Granite State. It is one of the most easterly settlements in Central County and is within one hour's drive of the Massachusetts line, the nearest town to which, on the other side, is Wiscasset, better known as "Foxville," where Dutch-Americans live. The town is a quiet one, where the people are mostly farmers and small business men. It is a town where the people are mostly farmers and small business men. Synopsis of Dr. Dean Mystery

The story of the Dean murder mystery began with the victim's efforts to secure Federal aid in his work of running down German spies in the New Hampshire mountains. A conversation between Dr. Dean and Mrs. Horace Morrison of Boston was given in which he asked her to notify the authorities. Mrs. Morrison went to Boston and conferred with Department of Justice officials. The following day the read that Dr. Dean had been murdered, and his body thrown in a well. Mention was made of a threatening letter received by the patriotic American, and tentative plans made by him to secure police protection. Friction between the various authorities regarding the arrest of suspects was related. An absorbing account of German activities in the mountains was given and official records quoted showing that U-boats were frequently near enough to the New England coast to read signalled messages. The characters of Dr. and Mrs. Dean were described and their picturesque home life in East Jaffrey was depicted.

for his country just the same as any other man in the trenches. This country sums up public sentiment in East Jaffrey, and the whole country. Dr. Dean is a local hero, a man of high character, a man of high character, a man of high character.

DEMAND JUSTICE.
This public spirit is now demanded that Dr. Dean's death be investigated and the murderers brought to justice and punished. Even the most ardent lover is convinced that East Jaffrey will never rest easy until the Dean case has been cleared up.

There is a hotel fronting on the public square which is built of red brick and looks more like a school house. The square has a broad lawn, which is a large boulder with a bronze tablet engraved with the names of the young men of East Jaffrey who were recruited for the United States Army during the World War.

CITIZENS OF MASSACHUSETTS

This is the first of a series of advertisements intended to make clear the VITAL IMPORTANCE to YOU and to YOUR GOVERNMENT of the paramount issue in this campaign in Massachusetts, and the REVOLUTIONARY and far-reaching consequences CERTAIN TO FOLLOW a wrong decision of it.

The issue is NOT the political fortune of ANY MAN, or the success of ANY POLITICAL PARTY.

IT IS A FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLE OF YOUR GOVERNMENT—the principle of your right to the protection of your Constitution and your laws, YOUR RIGHT to the UNDIVIDED ALLEGIANCE OF YOUR PUBLIC SERVANTS.

The issue was raised by the DESERTION of a large majority of the police force of Boston, and their subsequent UNREPENTANT and DEFIANT ATTITUDE against the authority of the Commonwealth—attitude in which they are now aided and abetted by the Democratic candidate for Governor.

Those policemen had taken this SOLEMN OATH:

"I (name for name) hereby accept the office of _____ on the police force of the city of Boston and agree to obey and be bound by _____ and regulations and will support the Constitution and the laws thereof, on pain of being discharged and perform all the duties incumbent on me as a police officer of the city of Boston."

In obedience to this oath, they also signed the following agreement:

"I (name for name) hereby accept the office of _____ on the police force of the city of Boston and agree to obey and be bound by _____ and regulations and will support the Constitution and the laws thereof, on pain of being discharged and perform all the duties incumbent on me as a police officer of the city of Boston."

To them, UNDER THAT SACRED CONTRACT, was entrusted the DUTY of safeguarding the lives and property of the men, women and children of Boston.

THEY PROVED FAITHLESS TO THAT TRUST!

Deliberately and with malice, they BROKE THEIR OATH, defied YOUR SOVEREIGNTY, routed YOUR LAWS, abandoned their duty and LEFT THE CITIZENS OF BOSTON TO THE MERCY OF THE CRIMINALS AND THE MOB!

THAT IS THE ISSUE.

The Democratic candidate would SURRENDER YOUR STATE GOVERNMENT, CALVIN COOLIDGE HAS MAINTAINED YOUR GOVERNMENT, DEFENDED YOUR SACRED RIGHTS.

If you believe that "OBEDIENCE TO LAW IS LIBERTY," that to permit the Commonwealth to be INTENDED would be to DESTROY LIBERTY AND TAKE THE STEP INTO ANARCHY, YOU CAN DEFEND THAT BELIEF ONLY BY VOTING FOR THE CRIMINALS: GO TO THE POLLS NOVEMBER 4, and VOTE THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

Vote for CALVIN COOLIDGE for Governor

PAOLO'S FIGHT FOR BETTER FOOD ENDS

Known to Many as an Excellent Chef and Good American

They're getting ready today for the funeral of Paolo Contestabile.

That may not mean much to the average reader. But to those who knew this self-sacrificing, modest Italian chef, it means that one of the best Italian-American citizens of Boston has passed on.

Paolo Contestabile was not polished. He dressed indifferently. His speech was handicapped by his broken English. But his heart was in the right place every hour in the day.

Paolo Contestabile was known to many. First of all to the thousands of notable chefs, such as the University, as an excellent chef. He held many other positions as chef in some of Boston's best hotels and clubs.

He was known best, however, to the fellow countrymen, for whose interests no hour of the day or the night was too early or late to keep him from doing his best.

He belonged to numerous organizations, fraternal and semi-political, which have for their reason of existence the furtherance of the betterment of the Italian-speaking element of the community.

HE DIED IN HARVEST.
But first of all, Paolo Contestabile was an American. Mornings and nights, whatever time he could get from his pressing duties and long hours as a chef, he worked for the Americanization of his fellow countrymen.

And he died in the harvest. For it was while addressing the Everett branch of the Sons of Italy, and appealing for good citizenship, that he dropped dead.

Paolo Contestabile first became known to the American by his frequent appearance at the American office and his appeals for better food laws. His insistence and efforts of all were so persistent that at last he was consulted by many officials.

And he died in the harvest. For it was while addressing the Everett branch of the Sons of Italy, and appealing for good citizenship, that he dropped dead.

Paolo Contestabile has gone to his reward. He has left his mark on the men and women of his time. This impulse was given for the good. Hundreds of his fellow citizens have bettered their Americanization. Hundreds will miss him. That's why this story was written. That's why the American wants his readers to know that Paolo Contestabile is dead.

EVEN HOUSE OF COMMONS INFESTED BY PROFITEERS

London, Oct. 24.—The probing of profiteers began at home as far as one member of the House of Commons is concerned. While other members shouted the name of the country profiteers this member took form of the word "one penny" better than from the House of Commons dining room, required them to a delicate chemist's scale, and found he had been buying butter at the rate of 24.75 a pound.

The member wants something done about it, but the kitchen committee seems inclined to "stand pat" and let him go back on milk-raising.

By International News Service, Washington, Oct. 23.—The largest airship in the world, the British dirigible H-19, now under construction in England, will be purchased for the United States Navy in the department as soon as a contract can be signed with the British Air Ministry, Secretary of the Navy, announced today.

Secretary Daniels further declared that Congress, realizing the United States is far behind England in dirigible airship craft, had appropriated two and one-half million dollars for the purchase of the dirigible from England, for the construction of another, and for the training of pilots.

AMERICAN GIRL ARRESTED FOR KIDNAPING

Tells London Police She Is Wife of American Naval Officer; Is Nineteen Years Old

London, Oct. 22.—A nineteen-year-old girl, who says her name is Olive Tilson and claims to be the wife of an American naval officer, was arrested at Harwich with a two-year-old boy, whom she is accused by the police of having kidnaped.

The girl used various names, including Olive Tilson, Jones, Nitch and Nelson.

She is accused of abducting the golden-haired son of Mrs. Adams of Lambeth, who says the girl met her daughter, Peggy Adams, at a ball, and asked permission to take her child. The permission was granted and the girl and boy never returned.

U. S. TROOPS TO DRIVE GERMANS FROM RIGA

Brigade to Be Sent from Brest to Give Battle to Army of Von Der Goltz

Paris, Oct. 22.—With the imminent annihilation of the Letts by Von Der Goltz's army of Germans comes the announcement that three transport companies are to leave Brest within ten days carrying a brigade of former American soldiers enlisted for service in the Lithuanian army and 500 French troops.

The brigade is officered by 500 former American officers who are to be sent one grade higher than the American rank.

The Americans are fully equipped with rifles, machine guns, automatics, aeroplanes, artillery, trench digging machinery and clothes. The whole brigade is spilling for a fight. "We didn't lick the Germans badly enough on the Western front, so we'll fight the job in Lithuania," said the general commanding the brigade, who enlisted in the Foreign Legion at the beginning of the war and was the only American attaining a captaincy in the French army. He transferred later to the A. Z. F., where he was made a colonel.

If the Germans, who are commanded as Russians, reach Riga before the transports arrive there the Americans intend to land and storm the city. It is known that the Letts are backed by very powerful American interests who desire to see the Bolsheviks driven out of Russia. The expedition apparently is supplied with unlimited funds.

The chief of the air service in the expedition is Lieutenant Pearson, an American now in the French army. He will have with him several former members of the Lafayette escadrille and members of the American flying service. It is stated that the German Hindenburg was invited to join.

The whome apparently has the command, if not the aid, of the American, French and British governments who are interested in the solution of the Baltic problem.

MORAN FIGHTS INCREASE IN EAST BOSTON GAS

A movement to give the residents of East Boston another opportunity to oppose an increase in the price of gas has been started by Patrick K. Moran, Democratic nominee for representative from the Second Suffolk district. He declares the public was not given sufficient notice of the first hearing and that the case should be reopened in a letter to the Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners. If he fails to have the case renewed, Moran says he will present a petition asking for a reduction in the gas rates. The new rate fixed for East Boston is 15 cents per thousand.

These dresses were bought at great price concessions from several manufacturers who are closing up their Fall business, and are offered here the full advantage of this opportune purchase.

WOMEN'S AND MISSES' SATIN DRESS, values 25.00 to 35.00, 19.75

Yes—19.75 if you can believe it! Isn't it wonderful something that is really moderate in price—and so attractive—soft satin dresses are up-to-the-minute models—some prettily, others quite tailored.

There are graceful tulle and draped frocks and some plain skirts—the sort of dresses that one gets such pleasure out of wearing in the house on winter evenings. There is a simple grackle about them that you will appreciate.

DRESSES FOR LARGER WOMEN, values 55.00 to 75.00, 45.00

Becomingly made and of the materials that are modish Winter—They are of satin and georgette, in navy, taupe and black. Sizes 40½ to 48½.

RICH GOWNS OF TRICOTTEE, values 95.00 to 135.00, 75.00

There is elegance and charm—in every fold of tooth, all silk tricottee. It falls gracefully into gowns with full lines. The colors are those that one does not tire of—rich browns, taupe, navy blue and black.

The gowns are embroidered, some richly with jet beads—others have ribbette embroidery—still others have touches of brushed wool. Some are quite plain.

Most of these gowns have round collarless necks are either tailored or in graceful bell shape, loose bands and are conspicuous on many of the skirts.

They are lovely gowns—artistic of line and of soft silk of the season—a truly unusual opportunity to get useful dresses this Fall at this price.

CALLS GUARDS FAILURE AS TRAFFIC MEN

Chauffeur Suggests Repaving
Rough Streets; Want the Police Reinstated

Marked interest in the solution of the traffic problems that are puzzling Boston city officials is being taken by citizens from all parts of Greater Boston. It seems to be the opinion of many that a reinstatement of the striking police force would be the most effective method. While others believe that a strict enforcement of various city traffic regulations would untangle the traffic knot, some of the suggestions follow:

NEED POLICE ON JOB

Traffic Editor, Boston American:

"There is only one solution of the congestion in the streets of Boston, and that solution is the reinstatement of the police. The public has the idea that it is necessary to make one-way streets, or widen certain streets, which will necessitate large expenditures, but this will not relieve the congestion."

"Why did not this traffic trouble occur when the police were on duty? Because they knew how to handle traffic. A traffic officer never lost his head when a traffic tie-up occurred, but in a few seconds everything was moving."

"Nowadays we see inexperienced State Guards standing at the busiest corners, who, in their mouths, are giving their area, thus directing traffic. Whenever a jam occurred, and it happened many times a day, the State Guard stood bewildered, not really knowing how to handle the traffic and crowd moving. By the time he collects his wits the jam has increased, and it takes quite a while before things are started again."

"As traffic police the State Guards know as much about handling traffic as my cat knows how to pilot airplanes. I do not wish to reflect upon the character of the State Guards, as they are as fine a body of men as any State in the Union can produce."

"We certainly have got to hand it to them for maintaining order and protecting the city, but as traffic officers, the former Boston police knew and still know how to handle the biggest traffic congestion. The quicker the police are reinstated, the less expense there will be and trouble will be saved."

DAVID L. MALTZ,
URGES ELEVATED WALKS
Traffic Editor, Boston American: Permit me to voice my opinion on the controversy involved. Widening Park, Boylston and Tremont streets is not conducive of the best safety, inasmuch as it will not relieve a congestion but enhance the danger to pedestrians on an already dangerous thoroughfare.

"I also believe that in time automobiles will accustom themselves to the greater freedom this widening process will offer them and we will be faced with another complex problem."

We have, near my home, a sample of the wide boulevard and I must say that even grown men fear to tread the unprotected expanse. This is at the time better, leading this Brookline at the end of Huntington avenue. Automobiles do not regard the rights of pedestrians over this area, feeling that it is their right of way."

"At the same time automobiles are a part of our present day life and the man who does not own an auto, must adopt a far-sighted attitude toward relief from their congestion."

"The only solution that ensures efficiency, rapid transit and sufficient safety, has been suggested by cutting a short-cut through the Common from Park street to Park square, allowing footbridges at intervals for pedestrians. There is no reason why this could not be made beautiful and time set in with the general scheme of relief, in fact it would make Tremont street a safer crossing for tired nerves and thereby pay the amount to our injured body of preserving the Common."

N. JOSEPH TRAYNOR,
Boston.

AGAINST SLICING COMMON.

Traffic Editor, Boston American: "I believe that Dear Old Boston Common should be left alone. It would not solve the traffic difficulties, and only make an extra expense to the city of Boston. What Boston wants is to put the Boston police force back again on the job. The sooner, the better for all."

Boston had one of the best police forces in the country and they could handle the traffic of B. K. They always did the work which in some places now requires two State Guards to handle. At that they now manage to haul up the crossing, twisting traffic (cluttered). READER OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN AND A TAXPAYER.

COLLEGE GAME CAVEATS

By CHARLES E. PARKER

A massed play by Dartmouth graduates to ruin the Dartmouth-Colgate game from Haver, N. H., in Boston, Mass., is in order today.

Such a move will come to the accompaniment of a retrenchment chorus by football writers who last week counted every team but Colgate and Syracuse out of the running for leading football honors.

Following a more or less common line of thought, it is—judging football teams by the scores of the games—there writers figured "13 to 14" told the strength of Dartmouth in its game with Penn State, when they had studied the play. They would have learned that the Penn State players came on a player and that Dartmouth not only gained the time as much ground, but in virtually every respect was vastly superior to the scores of the game.

Now that Dartmouth has added Cornell to its list of victims—again a more impressive measure than the scores of the game indicate—all eyes are turned toward Haver, and not solely because they suspect a plot on the part of the Haver "Bucks" to "give" Dartmouth a "game" which will ruin the latter's reputation.

The one outstanding aspect of the game was the defeat of Syracuse at a supposedly ordinary team from Washington and Jefferson. Under the circumstances, the game was a surprise, and it was the triumph of Yale over the West Point eleven. While, of course, the game was a surprise, it was not a surprise in the sense that the game was a surprise.

ELIS 3000 SHARPE

New Haven, Ct., Oct. 27.—Dr. Albert Hayes Sharpe and the new Yale football coaching machine which he assembled this fall have arisen triumphant from their first crystal test. After a mid-season defeat by a mediocre, eleventh high school team, they have shown that it is possible to win strength, speed and versatility and that it is possible to use them.

There was also questioning on the other campus over the coaching of Dr. Sharpe's football machine in the Boston College game. All this led to a change of plans in the fall coaching regime.

Instead of developing their variety eleven to attack the Princeton and Harvard games which bring the Yale season to a climax, they concentrated on games in their preparation and work up an immediate demonstration of what they were capable of.

The Yale team came through the first game in splendid shape physically and with buoyant hope reposed in the coaching of Dr. Sharpe.

"Babe" Allen, twice recovered fumble, while "Spot" Reinhardt, the other receiver, displayed brilliant, all-around play. Sharpe, a new-comer, showed impressive substance in the second half. Fred Graham, the team captain, was a star in the game.

Although Arovia was injured Saturday, it was expected that Leon Walker would stand out as Yale's leading player.

Love has made the dainty underbodice an essential part of the well-dressed woman's wardrobe. We have indeed gone a long way from the ugly old-time corset cover and heavily boned corset waist to the mod in cut and soft, yet, comfortable brassiere. The extremely low bust corset in fashion today is a far cry from the models the shops are offering in brassieres so lovely that they take the place of the camisole. Bandeau
